

Information for Dispositive Provisions (how Tatiana wants her assets distributed at her death):

Tangible Personal Property: She may leave a list identifying certain items and people she wants to receive certain items. There is a Virginia Code Section specific for incorporating such document in her Will to make it a part of her Will if it the list exists when she dies. Include that provision, and incorporate by reference as specified in the code section. You must locate the code section and add it to your Will draft.

Specific Bequests: Tatiana wants to leave $10,000.00 to each of her children to be held in Uniform Transfer to Minors Act (25) accounts, with her husband Diego named as Custodian for each child's account. Identify each child separately and write each child's bequest as a separate bequest.

Residuary Clause: Tatiana wants to leave her residuary estate to her husband Diego, and if Diego should predecease her, she wants to leave her residuary estate to her children, in equal shares.

Executor: Diego Alexander Truheart. If Diego predeceases Tatiana, she appoints her sister Phoebe LaFlemme as executor. If you did not include a provision to exempt your Executor or successor from surety bond in your prior draft of Tatiana's Will, add that provision now.

Guardian of minor children: Diego will be the children's guardian if he survives Tatiana. You only need to appoint a different guardian of the person and property of their children if he does not survive Tatiana. If Diego does not survive Tatiana, she names her sister Phoebe LaFlemme as guardian of the persons and the property of her minor children.
